We took an idea and gave it form. Gave it power—by conveying it to everyone it should or could have influenced. We put it in print and used it to sell, to inform, to shape the conditions that shape the world.

Today. . . Alice Cooper, Seals and Croft and Jim Croce's words shaped the ideas that existed in our small worlds. They talked of self reliance, of friends never meeting again, and saving time in bottles. And in turn we adapted their words into our own messages stating independence, memorable times with friends, and seeing clearly the people we really are.

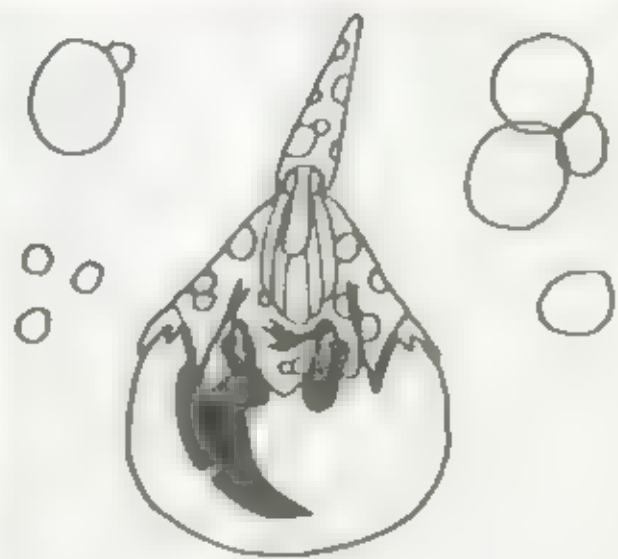

Tomorrow? Even greater expectations of mind and body expansion; mindly growth to meet growing needs. The need to face decreased resources as time goes on, the need of new technologies which will have to generate new horizons from less materials, the need of people who must learn to live together in a constantly changing environment.

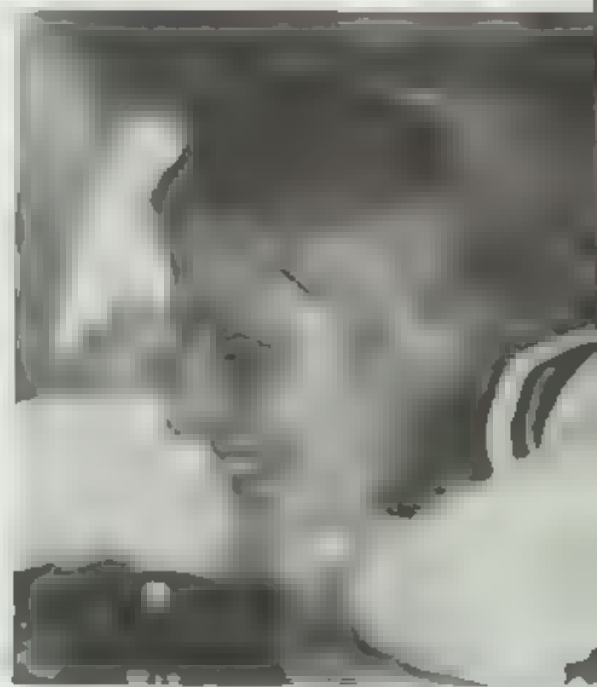

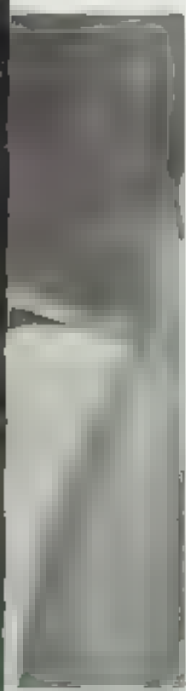

The Results? A generation suddenly broadening to meet those needs - developing our own technologies, placing new emphasis on the content and effort of our message. Suddenly in tune with tomorrow. Suddenly developing a critical need of our own to reach out to touch others with our knowledge—to attract and to develop the variety of talents new generations will offer.

Previous generations have opened the path in which we follow. We have become people in our own right, (I am People). Suddenly we are aware of the presence of others, (I'm O.K. You're O.K.). And we express ourselves as individuals, (I am moody). Yet we have not closed our eyes to progress and we welcome new aspects of life, (I am Changing). Finally, we are here to find out who our elders are who play such an important part in our lives, (Who are you?)

Queen Lores crowned early; secret kept; suspense built

"I think it was good to have coronation early in the week because it gave the students a chance to get to know the Homecoming Queen."

Cathy Reiser . . . "I don't think anyone outside of those who counted votes knew who the queen was."

Cindy Jacobson . . . "We had to find dresses for the girls and set up the coronation. For good luck we had to look at the weather and assign the girls to the weather."

John Fahman . . . "I really liked the idea of having the coronation all week. It offers a lot of suspense and fun for everyone." Queen Lores Gingerich

As a change in tradition, Queen Lores was crowned third hour Monday instead of on the Homecoming night. This made it possible for her to reign the entire week, attending luncheons and visiting grade schools. (Bottom) Queen Lores, court. First row, Debbie Moen, Jody Nelson, Karen Schwemmer, Anita Hanson. Second row, Linda Nelson, Terry Nielsen, Coke Minehart, Reid Katzung, Queen Lores Je-

'k lo' played from 9:30 to 12:30 to a packed audience of over 10,000 fans.

With the home team, the University of Minnesota football team.

"Mankato came out tougher than we expected the first half, but we came back strong the second half." (16)

"From what I heard from other students, I would not have been surprised if we'd lost, considering Mankato's team was stronger and had a reputation."

The game was a close one, with the home team leading 10-60 in the fourth quarter. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 10-60 in the fourth quarter. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 10-60 in the fourth quarter.

*Novice actor
steals show;
greed, love
prime motives*

Brian Bressan, 19, Santa Fe; Andy Ryckman, 19, Mountain View; David Magnus, 18, Hollywood; Nick Sarno, 17, Encinitas; Norbert van der Grint, 16, San Diego; and John F. Fildes, 15, San Marcos. Most of them have been active in the past.

Margaret Ehrhardt is a member of Dave Wagner's musical group. He turned a boy of 17 into a 6-foot-tall man.

The efforts of a member of the Leach and Dan Thompson are not to be taken lightly, as they are a necessity.

"I have been asked why I went out for the play 'The Miser.' I can answer this in three words: I'm a ham. The hardest part about playing Harpagon was the voice I used." (Dave Wagner) . . . "It was a little embarrassing to be student directing friends, because I had to constantly correct them on lines etc. It was really fun though, and I enjoyed the position." (Mary Cotton) . . . "The play was great and really fun to do. It was worth the time and effort spent." (Catherine Bergen) "The play was O.K., but it was kind of boring. Dave Wagner is really a good actor but sometimes he exaggerated his part too much." (Sue Hanson) . . . "I thought the play was good but it was dragged out. David Wagner was fantastic." (Sue Lange)

Monsieur Harpagon (Dave Wagner) conveys the fact that his money has been stolen to the Justice of the Peace of France, (The Hon. and learned Scott Satre). Dave and Scott portrayed a magistrate that went strictly by the book, but changed if anything frightening happened.

Cast members Jeff Indrelie, Cathy Bergen, Jim May, and Paul Gronberg chat before the play.

"And take that you bumbling fool!" was Harpagon's reaction to Jacques' (Glen Jacobsen) description of his master as being a cheap unkind old man.

'Most eligible' eludes females; Sadie Hawkins causes mishaps

"It's really rotten that we got 20 minutes for lunch, because we like to eat and chase, too." (Laurie Arneson) . . . . "It makes me mad when the boys don't give you a chase." (Julie Crawford) . . . . "The guys are so rough—they hardly give you a chance to catch them." (Kathy Sumner) . . . . "I really felt bad because I wasn't chasing anyone. You feel too left out." (Debbie Moen) . . . . "The fun is fabulous but the danger is horrible. Twelve stitches down your face is no fun." (Mr. McCamy) . . . . "As I was going by the library I heard a girl yell, "Reid!" and I turned and ran for the door. A guy was holding it open, but as I got to it he let go and I went flying through the window onto the sidewalk." (Reid Katzung)

"Hands off he's mine," or "private property, keep off" were some of the stickers pinned on the girls' catches.

Kim Schultz, sophomore, pursues her game, Kirk Ellertson, sophomore. The chase officially started at the end of fourth hour.

Top Dog Dave Dahl was mobbed by dogcatchers at learning he was most eligible. He made five dollars by staying aloof the entire day.

Five most eligible bachelors are (top) Tom Nelson, Greg Kiser. (bottom) Mike McNamee, most eligible bachelor Dave Dahl, Joel Matheson. Among the night's activities were games and a 50's dance where some of those attending dressed the part of the 50's.

Advisor Robert Myers gives a few helpful hints to Lynn Kortz during rehearsal. Skits on the eve of the Senior Breakfast. It settled around the theme "Twelve Days of School" a takeoff from the "Twelve Days of Christmas." Just after the main entrance, scaring Santa, the seniors. About 300 seniors attended the breakfast eating Canadian bacon, eggs, and rolls held in the gymnasium of First Lutheran Church.

After the annual Senior Breakfast, seniors kept the illegal tradition of staying in the corridors, while juniors and sophomores remained in their classrooms.

Breakfast skits incite laughter; Debbie, Randy reign at dance

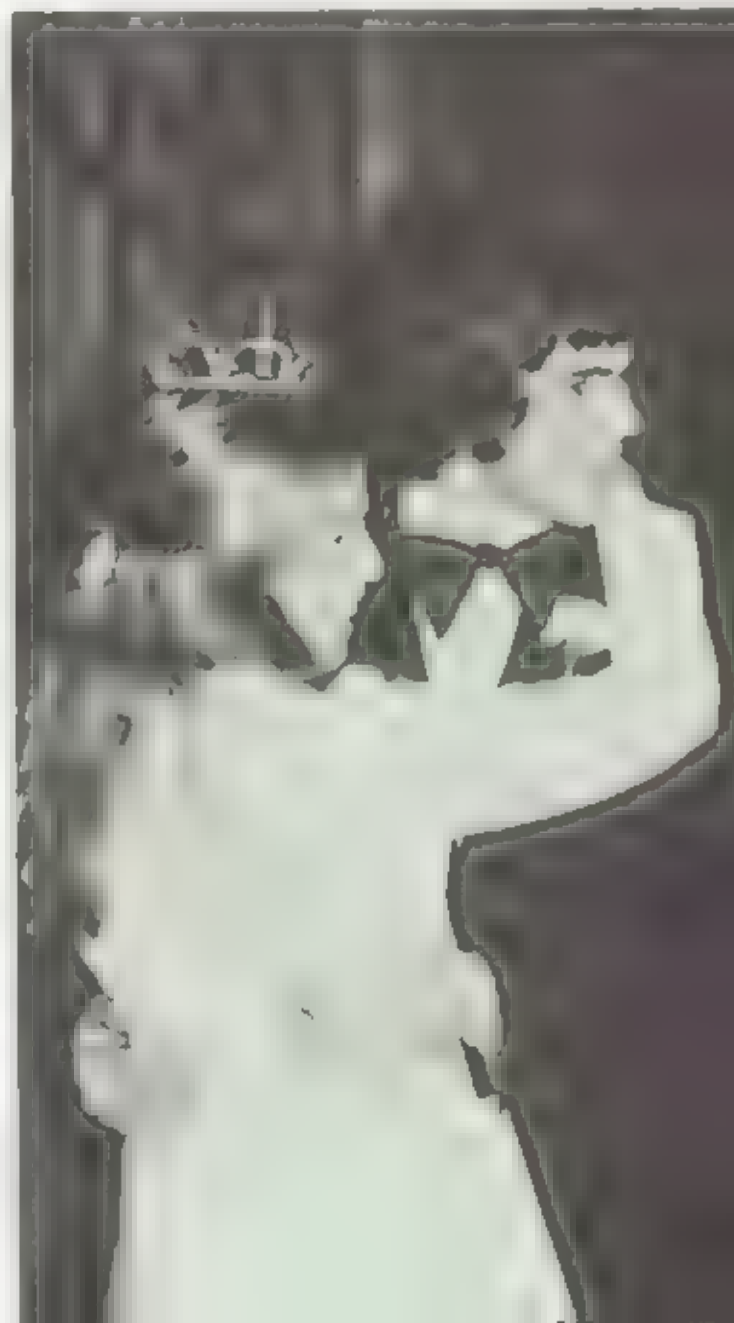

"I was shocked to see some of the kids dressed up, but I was glad. It should be that way." (Renee Houg) "I think the breakfast brought a lot of us closer, realizing that next time we'll all be together will be at graduation." (Ellen Bidne) . . . "The entertainment was pretty good. It brought back a lot of old memories, like boy and girl germs." (Greg Dahl)

"It was neat just seeing everyone participating in the same thing for once. The audience was as good as the kids in the skits." (Kent Smith) . . . "It was fun seeing how dumb we were when we were younger." (Paul Gronberg) "I didn't like the band at the Snow Dance. The songs were too old." (Connie Clark) . . . "I will always remember this occasion as one of the highlights in my school years." (Debbie South)

Institutionalized because of a psychotic disease melancholia, a se-

 Corday, the murderer of Marat, played by senior Paul Fakler.
 Combining two roles proved one of the more challenging aspects of the production. Paul also played a para-oid.

Marat/ de Sade: play in play exposes lunacy in asylum life

"The play brings out an atmosphere of general confusion within the audience basically because of all the action on stage. We had tried to cut down on some of this action so the viewer wouldn't be distracted so much and would be able to get the main concept of the play. (Dan Thompson) . . . "This year our contest play placed 3rd in the Regionals, receiving grades of A, A-, and B+ from the judges. We thought we'd put on our best performances, but the judges found some errors in the interpretation. This was due to the difficulty the cast had in playing insane people. Some of us had to spend an hour getting into character before going on stage." (Jim Norgard)

Senior Jim Norgard plays de Sade, the only partially sane character in this play within a play. de Sade was the only character who maintained his own identity throughout the play, and was also the play's author

Junior Dan Thompson narrated the play to explain the characters and plot to the audience. Listening are Scott Satri, the assistant director, and Jim Norgard, the character of de Sade.

Looking for a way to keep the heat in the house, many students have been known to seal the windows with tape. Some have even used old newspapers to plug the holes in the walls. Others have used old coats to prevent themselves from freezing.

Inside, outside: some make fun in winter scene with hardy play

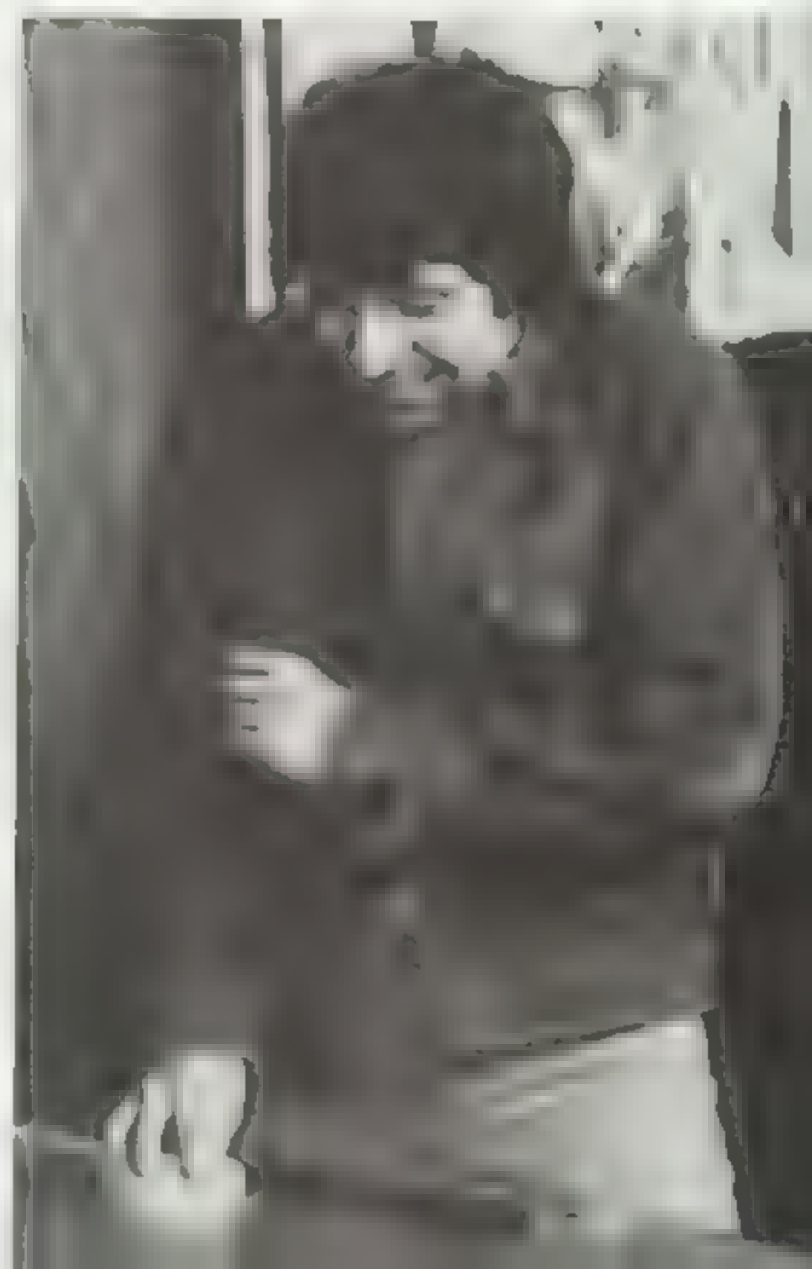

"Winter camping takes more equipment and experience than summer camping. Because of the risk of freezing, you need two good sleeping bags, an insulating pad, layers of clothing and warm socks. I really enjoy the outdoors, and camping in the winter is much less crowded than in summer. All the extra hardships you have to endure give you a greater sense of accomplishment after you're through." (Roland Hamborg)

"The bars are about the only place you can go when there's nothing else to do. It's a nice place to meet people or to just sit and talk with friends." (Lynn Knudson)

Despite the energy shortage, many students managed to acquire enough gas for their snowmobiles. At the end of the winter break, as he was heading out for a short trip, Hamborg decided to take a snowmobile ride.

Sophomore Jon Ziemer said he got up to go to school in the morning, but he was too tired to go to school. Many kids are tired from the winter break, and some are still recovering from the flu.

▲ During the past few years cross-country skiing has become a very popular winter sport. Senior Joel Matheson and some friends went to northern Minnesota, where they found great skiing and beautiful scenery

▲▲ Senior Jeff Poliak strides proudly back to his seat from the lane after he bowled a strike at the only local bowling alley. The bowling alley not only provides bowling, but also pinball and other games.

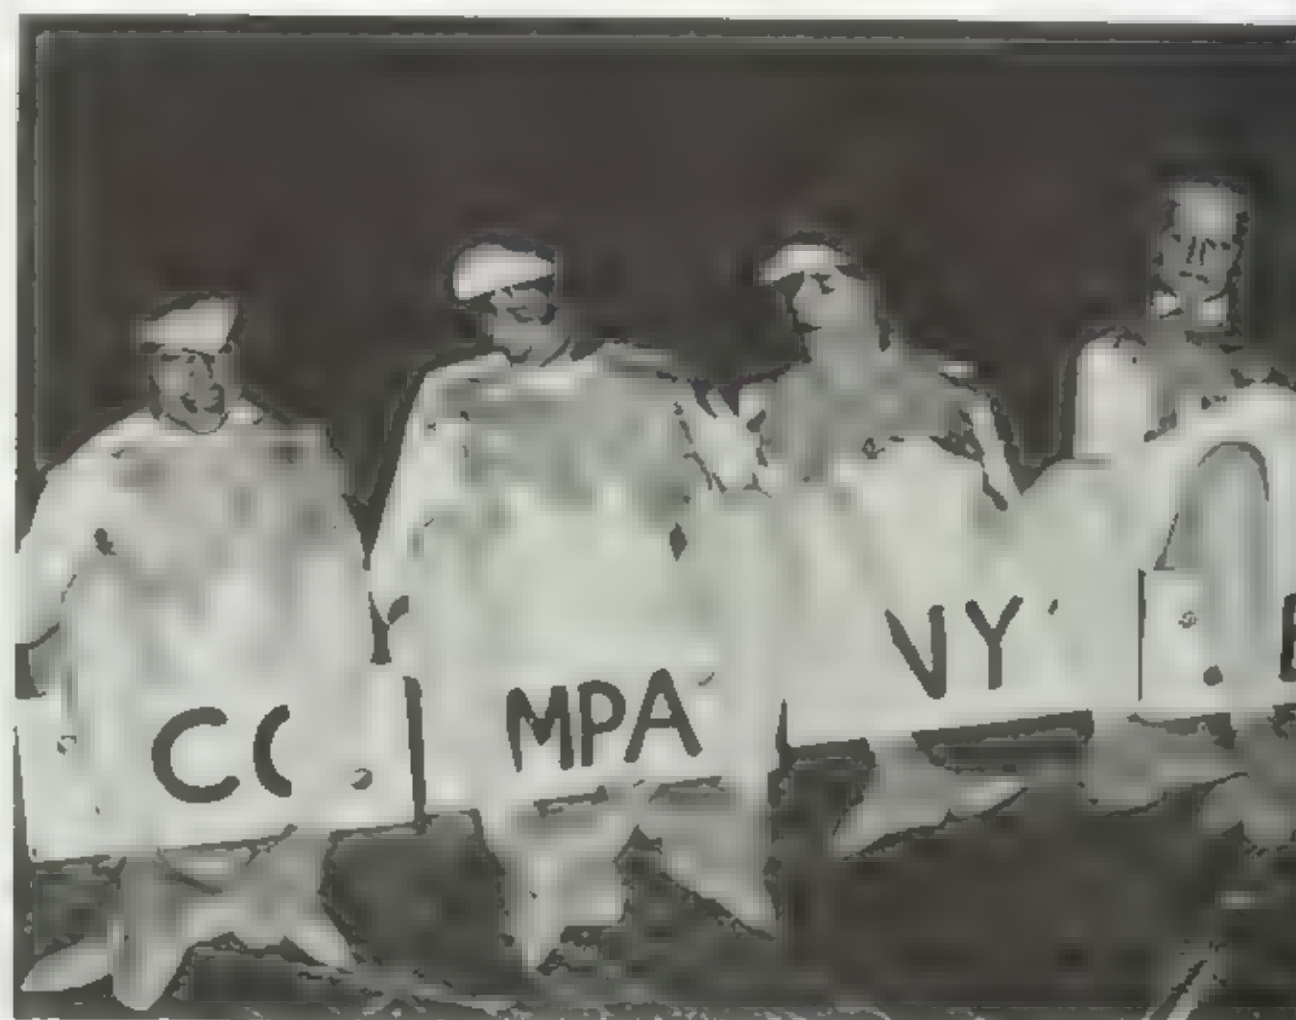

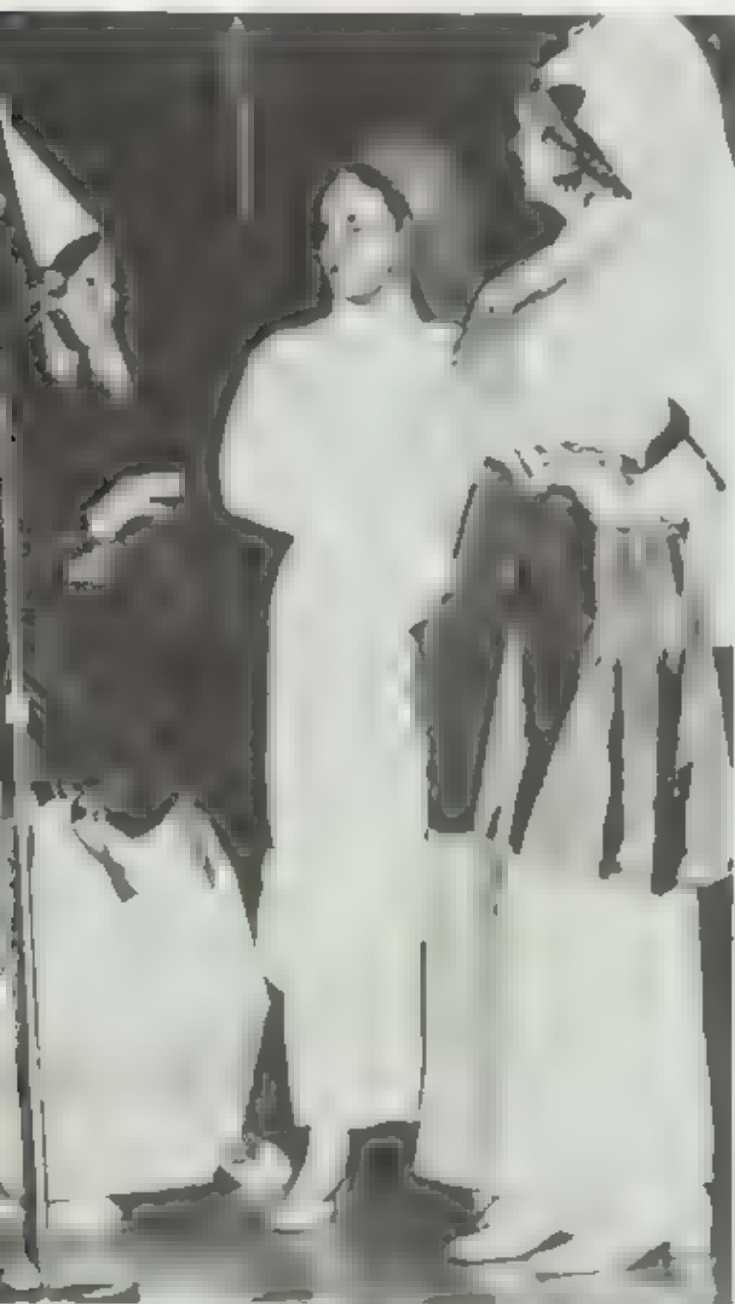

Seniors Jim Nielsen and Steve Goskeson and sophomore Jim Brech play a game of foosball. The miniature soccer game became immediately popular as soon as it was introduced to Albert Lea.

Tiger's Roar reverts to 50's; comic set goes vaudeville style

"We feel Tiger's Roar will be a lot more entertaining than years before doing it in a vaudeville style. Everything kept moving and there was no dragging, so it was trying to be everything together." (Pat Scherf, Paul Scherf)

"I need something crazy to do in my last year at high school. My friends talked me into it." (Pat Scherf) "I love it! We Foster Sisters turned in a whole new look with our hair, shoulders, and sexiness." (Kate Wilson) "We wanted to do something for Tiger's Roar but we turned it down in the end. We did 'Big Boy' song." (Tim Skahan)

'We did "Leader of the Pack" last year for Dance Club and had so much fun we decided to do it again.' (Sue Hansman) . . . . "Skahan has been playing songs from Cinderella and came up with the idea for doing it here." (Joyce Nothwehr)

Faculty members Ann Johnson and Joyce Agnew accompanied kazoo players Pat Bazicky, Ann Hansen, Judy Kautsch and Carol Frydenlund as they harmonized with their version of "When the Saints Go Marching In."

After the grand finale of "There's No Business Like Show Business" performed by the entire cast, seniors Dave Wagner and Jim Miller, the two choromen, were awarded their "just desserts" by a cast member.

Y Seminar sees NY, D.C.; students find pace confusing

Senior Kath Walsh gave adviser Tracy Remy the eye on the 36-hour bus ride. Along with the singing and joke telling, an important talent show was held during the ride.

Thirty-seven seniors from Albert Lea and New Richland, plus their five advisers, posed with Anchor Nelson, for a picture on the steps going up to the Capitol. The eleven day trip over Easter vacation made for quite a few unforgettable experiences.

"One of the most impressive sights we saw was the Lincoln Memorial the first night we reached Washington, D.C." (Maureen Catlett). "Getting stuck with 21 other people in an elevator for 30 minutes made me, as well as all the others, pretty cautious about riding elevators the rest of the trip." (Sue Hanson) . . . "Some of us were privileged to sit in on a wire tapping hearing, and got to see Sam Irvin, Edward Brooke and Senator Howard Baker in person, which was a real treat to us." (Sandy Strickland). "The taxicabs in New York City don't stop for anything, so we had to either dodge them or wait for the street to clear." (Linda King)

"Our company's project was making lamps out of beer and pop cans. We did everything ourselves, wiring each and putting the cans on painted blocks of wood." (Beth Fairchild)

"I learned how hard it is to get started in a business, and how to get along with different kinds of people you meet selling your product." (Steve Renchin) . . . "I became involved with JA when I heard about the fun of putting together a company, the parties, and getting credit at the same time." (Beth Hansen) . . . "Each Achiever earns about $25 an hour, but money is not the only reason for belonging. I think it's a very worthwhile activity." (Dawn Dohbertin)

Senior Brad Hegwood checks his tire air pressure at the Western Station. He works evenings and after school.

Senior Lori Olsen relaxes on her break at the Holiday Inn where she is a waitress in the coffee shop. Lori attends a half day of school, then goes to work in the afternoon.

An important requirement for a job at the Dairy Queen is concentration, which is demonstrated by sophomore Marilyn Hange as she patiently waits for buses from the warmer.

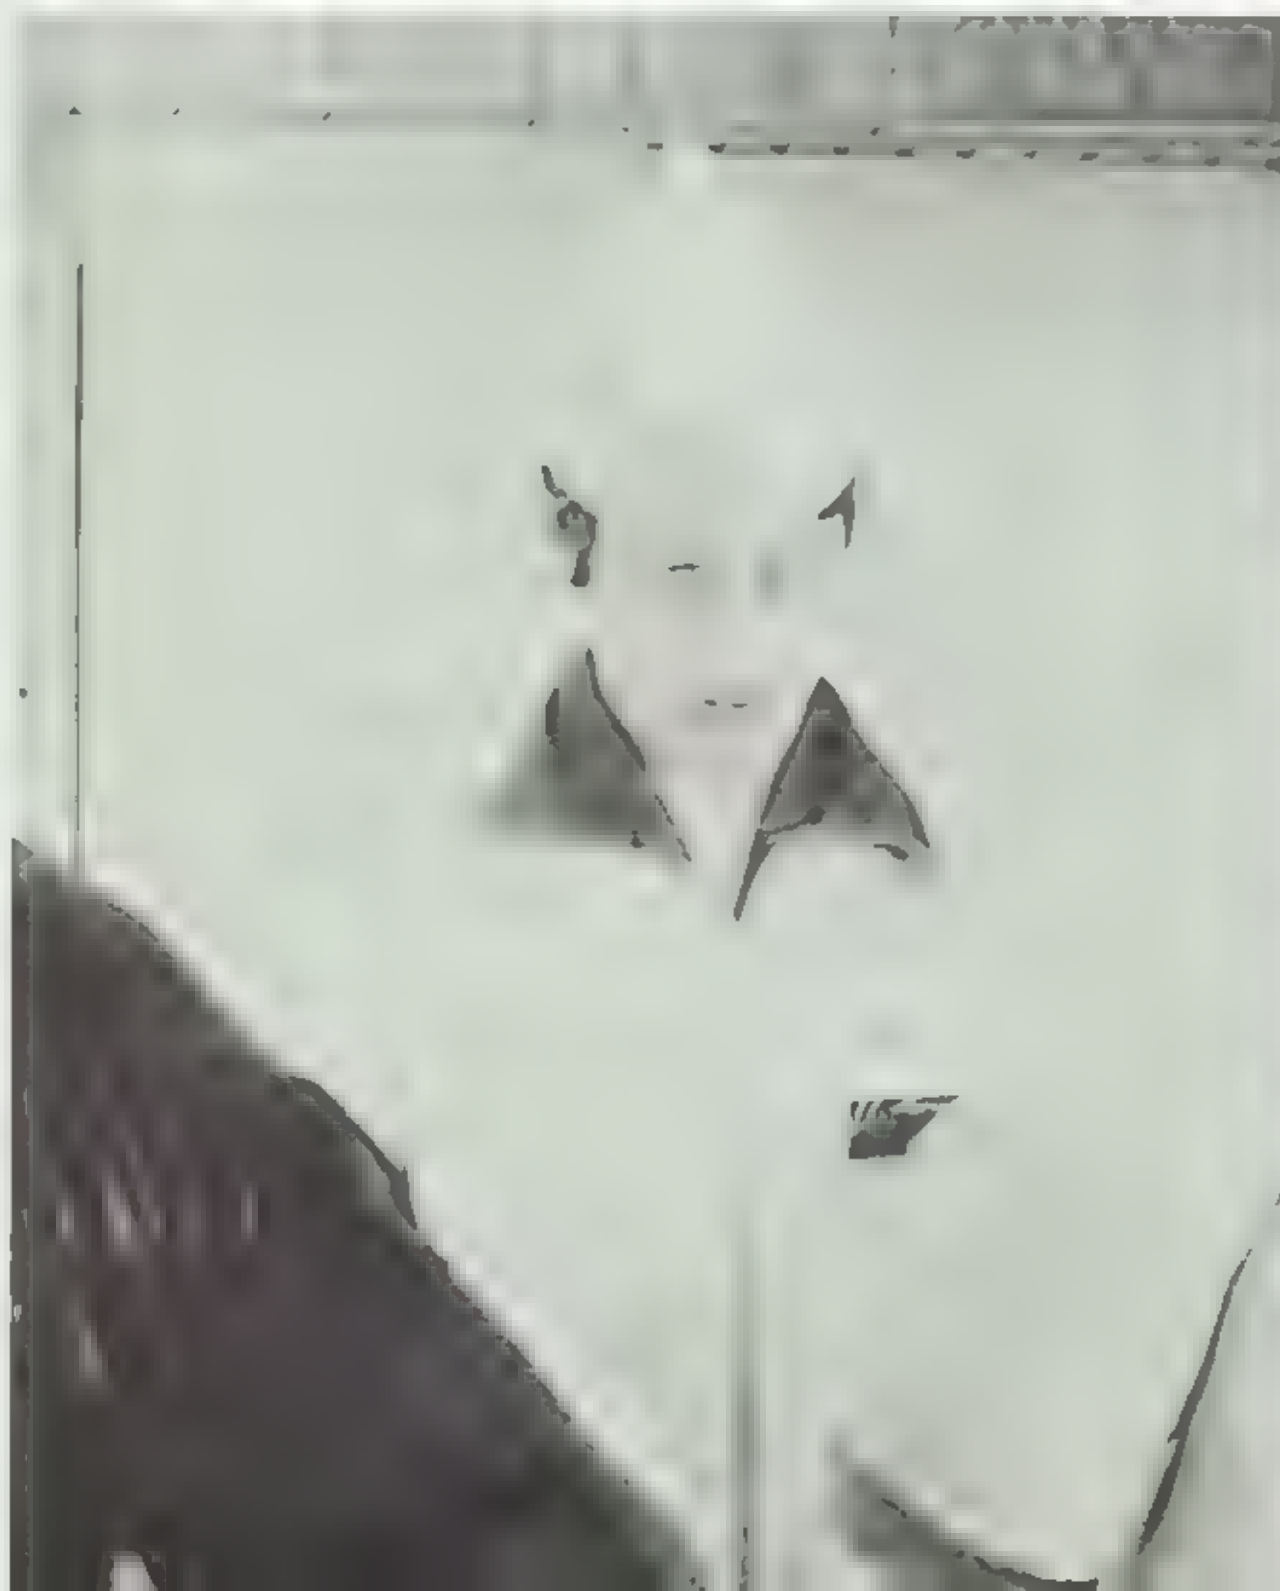

Being one of the many car boys in town, Leda Hange senior works at the A&W after school and on weekends. Being on the drag, A&W gets a lot of business from kids.

Senior Mike Bergo takes time out from packing and carrying groceries to pose for a picture with dairy manager Jessie Centu. Mike is a member of the VICA work program, and attends only a half day of school and goes to work in the afternoon.

"I work at Johnson Floral and I really like it, because I get to meet interesting and different people. Sometimes little old ladies even kiss me!" (Mike Bennett) . . . "I work at the Albert Lea Medical and Surgical Center as a janitor. The pay and working conditions are very good but I would like to be working more hours." (Jeff Indrehe) . . . "I work because I like the independence the money gives me. The job isn't that bad, but the only motivation is that next check. Besides the money, the greatest benefit is that I've met and learned to work with many different kinds of people." (Julie Pumper) "I work at the A&W, and the wages are really low, but the only reason I work there is because no one else is hiring." (Ellen Salter)

Spring musical shows talent; standing ovation proves success

"You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" was a good challenge for the actors. The musical probably established a tradition for our high school because of the success and enjoyment of our first attempt. I was very proud of the actors and hope we can have a bigger musical next year." (Lilah Aas, costumes) . . . "Linus gave me a chance to be a little kid again. He was smart, yet he still retained his childish nature. I like that." (Matt Hoffman) . . . "The part of Snoopy as far as I'm concerned, was a dog gone good part, but by the end of the play I'll have to admit, I was dog tired. I'm not responsible for this quote since I'm mad with rabies." (David Wagner) . . . "Obviously it was type casting in the part of Lucy. It's true I'm crabby person. I'm a very crabby person and everybody knows it. I'm super crab." (Pat Skaban)

Charlie Brown, played by junior Bryan Brown, looks depressed and sad from his friend Lucy in the song "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown." In the song "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," Lucy and Charlie Brown are woe.

Lucy takes out her frustrations on her little brother, Linus, portrayed by junior Matt Hoffman, when she learns that she is being invited to a birthday party.

Scanning the horizon for the Red Baron is the World War I Flying Ace Snoopy, played by senior David Wagner. Besides flying, he also did a song and dance routine to his favorite time of day: Supper time.

Charlie Brown hopefully wishes for Valentines from his friends as Patty disappoints him by leaving him out of her list

Sophomore Marie Lund, playing Patty is drawn out a dress style by Lucy, on Charlie Brown's lunch bag. Charlie Brown hid inside when he saw the Little Red-Headed Girl approaching. The girls ignore him

Seniors Diane Bendixen and Greg Earl danced to the music of the band. The band was quite expensive but they proved to be worth it

*'Sunshine' lives
despite rain;

"I don't think that the original purpose that Prom was built on is still there, but that doesn't take away any of the fun that goes along with it." (Kent Smith) . . . "I had a lot of fun. Going to Prom was so different from anything we usually do. I think everyone should go at least once, because I didn't go as a junior and now I'm sorry." (Jim Johnson) . . . "The formality of the Prom should be kept, because for some kids it's probably the only time, other than when they get married, that they'll get really dressed up." (Dennis Schmidt)

"There was no reason that the Elks couldn't have had an after-Prom party just like other years. The new drinking age wouldn't have affected it at all. They could have just closed down the bar." (Robin Jackson)
"It's really different seeing all your friends dressed up and eating somewhere special afterwards. The band at the Prom dance was the best part of the whole evening." (Suzi Iverson)

"It was a really great experience, all those kids working long and hard to accomplish something for the school. I really felt we had done something for somebody." (Matt Hoffman)

Sophomores Gloria South and Kay Tupper were at the Prom. The girls who served at 'Sunshine' wore dresses except they wore different colors.

A large variety of tuxedos, sports jackets, and suits were worn by the guys. The Promenade was so long that it was long enough for every one to parade up Water Street through Central Park and down Clark Street.

As a part of tradition, Junior class president Wade Henrichs and his date Deb Drach led the Promenade as it crossed West Avenue.

Audience small but awards big; top seniors get tassles, Oscars

"I never knew I was getting a scholarship and I'm very relieved to have to work less the next few years." (Dave Drommerhausen) . . . "Having the awards assembly at night is better than having it during school where everyone is required to attend, mostly because a lot of kids don't appreciate it." (Julie Crawford) . . . "Scholarships are a good deal for the student who doesn't have a lot of money but that should get through on his intellect." (John Kelly) . . . "They should keep the awards assembly inevitable because the scholarships will come in handy to those who need them." (Reid Katzung) . . . "I think it is a lot more profitable to have the assembly this way, so whoever is interested will come." (Joyce Nothwehr) . . . "The awards assembly is run very smoothly. The school and community scholarships are greatly appreciated by students as they will make the next few years easier for family as well as for themselves." (Coke Minchart, Student Council President)

"It is interesting to see where other people in our class are going and to see what everyone else achieved in the last few years." (Debbie South)

"It was hard to believe that graduation had already come. It seemed to be the best graduation ever. Dave's speech was very good because it was one that everyone could relate to." Andrea Selzer . . . Walking in and out in front of all the people really took something away from the ceremony." (Pat Scherf) . . . "Tonight as tradition has it, and believe me I know all about tradition (I saw Fiddler on the Roof seven times), as tradition has it graduation is a solemn and respectable occasion. Tonight has been no different until they stuck me up here." (Dave Wagner) . . . "I think we all need four basic things to be really, truly happy. First of all, we need a good self concept. How can someone be happy if he doesn't like himself? Next, we need friends. We need to know other people have a good concept of us, and we have to have a good concept of others. Lastly, I think we need to believe in something better than mankind." (Linda Nelson)

Last memories for seniors are blue hands, as temp hits 68

"School started out slow this year but as time goes on it keeps going faster. In many ways I wish I still had another year to go, but yet, I'm glad it's my last year." (Bruce Hansen) . . . "I want to go into the Marine Corps and I need a diploma for that, so I suppose that's why I'm here right now." (Steven Schmitz)

"I'm bored with this whole year. I can't see that it is a worthwhile year of school." (Jeanne Carlson) . . . "The swim team is really coming up. In less than five years we'll be in the top ten in the state. I've enjoyed school more this year because of it." (Rick Light) . . . "Instead of thinking about years, we're thinking about months as our senior year comes to a close." (Deb Frondal)

"I'm looking forward to graduation because I'll have a chance to see what the world is really like without its plastic covering." (Marilyn Stenzel) . . . "To be a senior is to graduate, and to graduate is to live a new life and experience." (Laurel Bryson)

Working hard to get a good grade, seniors are busy with a walk through the woods. Here, senior secretary, Andrea Selzer, vice president, Scott Hogan, and treasurer, Scott Hogan, are seen.

It seems like there's a new person in the class. Here senior Dan is trying to figure out what he's doing.

On the way to the bus, seniors are seen to be checking out any one of the seniors seen away.

cussion Society in 1965.

Three winners of the 1964 National Speech and Debate Competition, Doree Hansen and John Peterson, and Jim Norgard, second in Discussion Society in 1965.

Students who have earned scholarships, won contests, and gained leadership positions are shown in the following photographs.

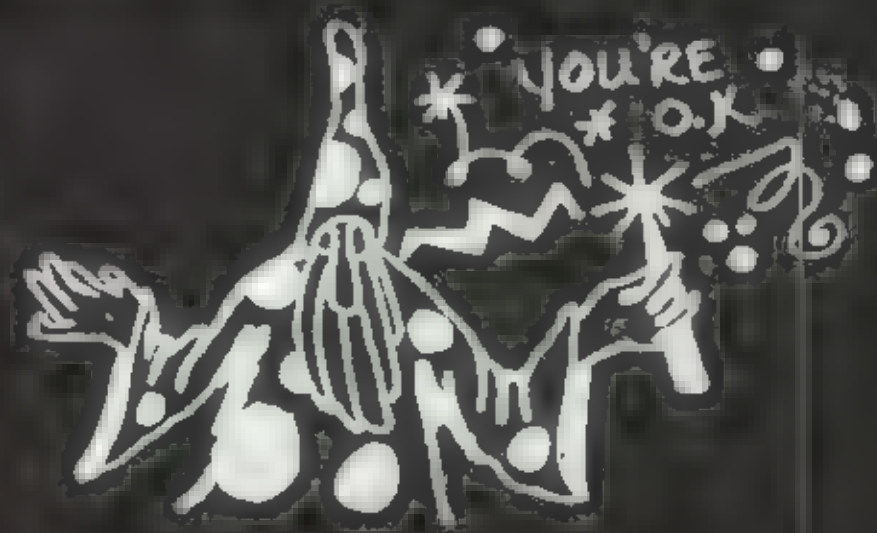

A bill that would ban most student fees required for high school courses in Minnesota won the approval of the State by a 38 to 26 vote. The bill would not be effective until 1975.
Minneapolis Star

The Minnesota House unanimously passed a year-round school bill and sent it to Gov. Wendell Anderson. The measure opens the door for school districts to spread their year over 12 months to avoid costly constructions of new buildings.
Minneapolis Star

Should American teenagers be permitted to leave school at age 14? Yes, said a group of responsible educators.
The Christian Science News Service Monitor

We accept each other as the people we are. Laws and activities of teenagers reflect our growing acceptance of each other. (You're O.K.)

Rotary student displays talent as judo expert with black belt

"I look forward to being a senior because it will be my last year of school, no more homework or teachers." (Melody Nelson) . . . "I'm not really looking forward to being a senior because when you become a senior, you're on your last and everybody goes his own way. You kind of lose touch with everyone." (Cathy Reese) . . . "Being a junior seems too much like being a sophomore. I look forward to being a senior because you don't have to worry about school after 12th grade." (Denise Roozenboom) . . . "I'm looking forward to my senior year; it seems like they have more things to do. Sophomores and juniors don't seem to have as many privileges." (Cheryl Blake) . . . "It doesn't matter to me whether we have to get up earlier. We're not getting up earlier, it's just dark when we get up." (Ron Peterson) . . . "We got gypped out of vacation and practice games." (Bob McCamy) . . . "I like being a junior because now I really feel I am a part of the school. It took a long time to get used to the system as a sophomore. Now I'm looking forward to being a senior." (Gail Dahl).

Juniors and seniors sit together and relax during their free time in the student lounge.

Here Hitoshi Morishima, Rotary exchange student, demonstrates the art of origami, or Japanese paper-folding. His swans were best!

While Rotary officers are not very busy during the first part of the year, they make up for it during the spring months planning for Prom. It's during one of those fall lulls they pause here. # Juniors learn about inflation when ordering traditional rings

"It's an expensive grade." (Stem Beidel) . . . "I haven't really seen that much more difference, except for maybe you're respected a little more. I seem to get more out of my classes." (Gary Distad) . . . "I think I'm getting more involved in junior activities than in sophomore." (Sheri Springborg) . . . "My junior year has been a lot better than my sophomore year, because I know I don't have long before I graduate." (Marcia Weum)

Juniors Jeff Wack, Ron Schmitt, and Ian Petersen make use of the student lounge for work, discussion, and general business. This was the first year the lounge has been in use, since its opening. Students were allowed to use the lounge during their first year.

Juniors take step farther, anxiously await own graduation

Some think you need a Christmas tree to decorate, but these junior girls think a locker would be just the right thing to trim.

"I think classes in the junior year are better than the sophomore." (Mary O'Leary) . . . . "Last year my friends were seniors and this year they're seniors, next year I'll have to start associating with juniors." (Sue Denzene) . . . . "What can I say? I mean really!" (Kathy Ehrhard) . . . . "You get a lot more out of humanities than the conventional classes." (Dawn Ditterson) . . . . "I thought eleventh grade parties were very rustic, bucolic, idealic, pastoral, and funnier than . . . ." (Tom Herwig)

Remember those rickety school buses and how you always had to run to catch them on time? The shortening of the school day helped the kids catch their bus on time.

Classes grow, kids mature, new teachers add informality

"I think they should put ashtrays in the student lounge, because it wouldn't be that much of a fire hazard, except on the carpeting." (Greg Grove) . . . . "I like being able to eat, I couldn't eat in my other study halls in junior high." (Randy Peterson) . . . . "Classes are easier, you have to decide to work, they don't tell you to." (Solly Houg) . . . . "I like the student lounge, compared to junior high, we spend most of our time down there." (Arden Peterson)

"There is better competition in senior high school sports. I've been on B and JV squad wrestling. I like high school classes, because you have more freedom." (Tom Beenken)

"It's stricter up here in classes and that keeps me from doing what I like to do. The work here is easier, and they have more classes you can sign up for." (Jeff Robbins) It takes a lot more responsibility in your sophomore year than in junior high, and here we have equal opportunities." (Kathy Head) "Teachers are better. At junior high they treated you like little kids" (Gwen Friesen)

Students find dark streets prevail when time changes

After a hard week of school, Pat Brown really knows how to relax on the week-end as she escapes to the peacefulness of the country

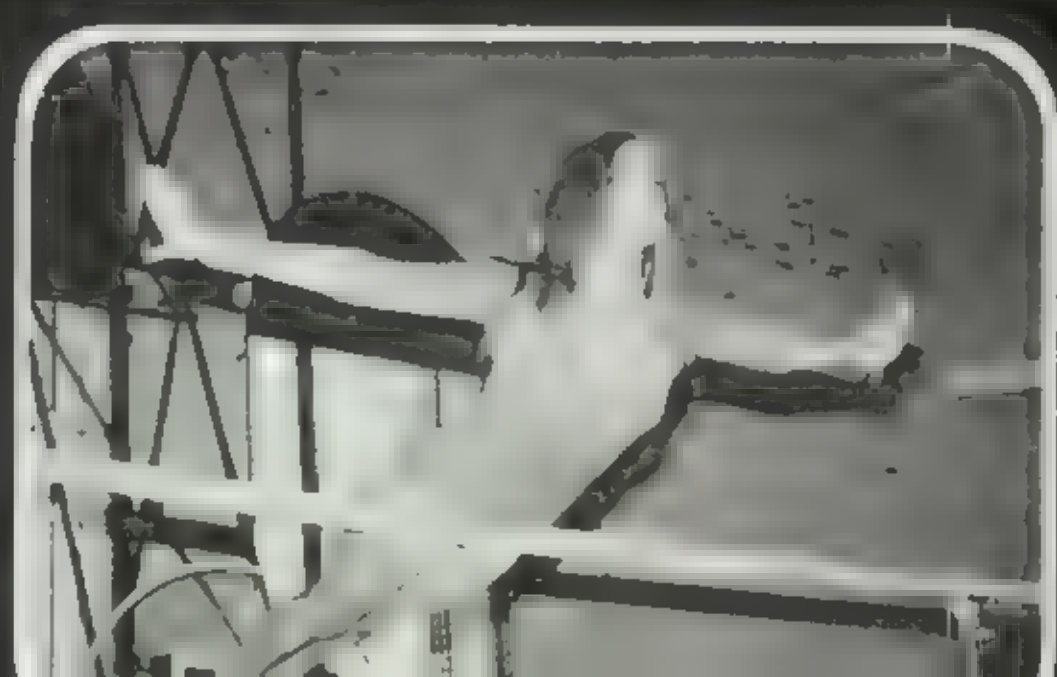

For the second time in five years, the Vikings have experienced the bitterness of being second best in Super Bowl VIII against the Miami Dolphins was a nightmare.

Atlanta Braves baseball star Hank Aaron broke Babe Ruth's lifetime home-run record of 714 in the game against the Cincinnati Reds.
Minneapolis Tribune

Not presenting much of a challenge, Rosemount swimmers were easy pickings for the Tigers as they smashed them 106-166 in the "A" Squad and 108 to zip on "B".
Albert Lea Tribune

Moods changing just as the sports seasons do; one moment it's a smile and then it's the agony of suffering defeat. All of them a reflection of our time and those ahead.

New coaches, continual rain, push athletes onward/upward

Senior Linda N. Chaplin swims in the pool water during warm-up session before competing in synchronized swimming practice.

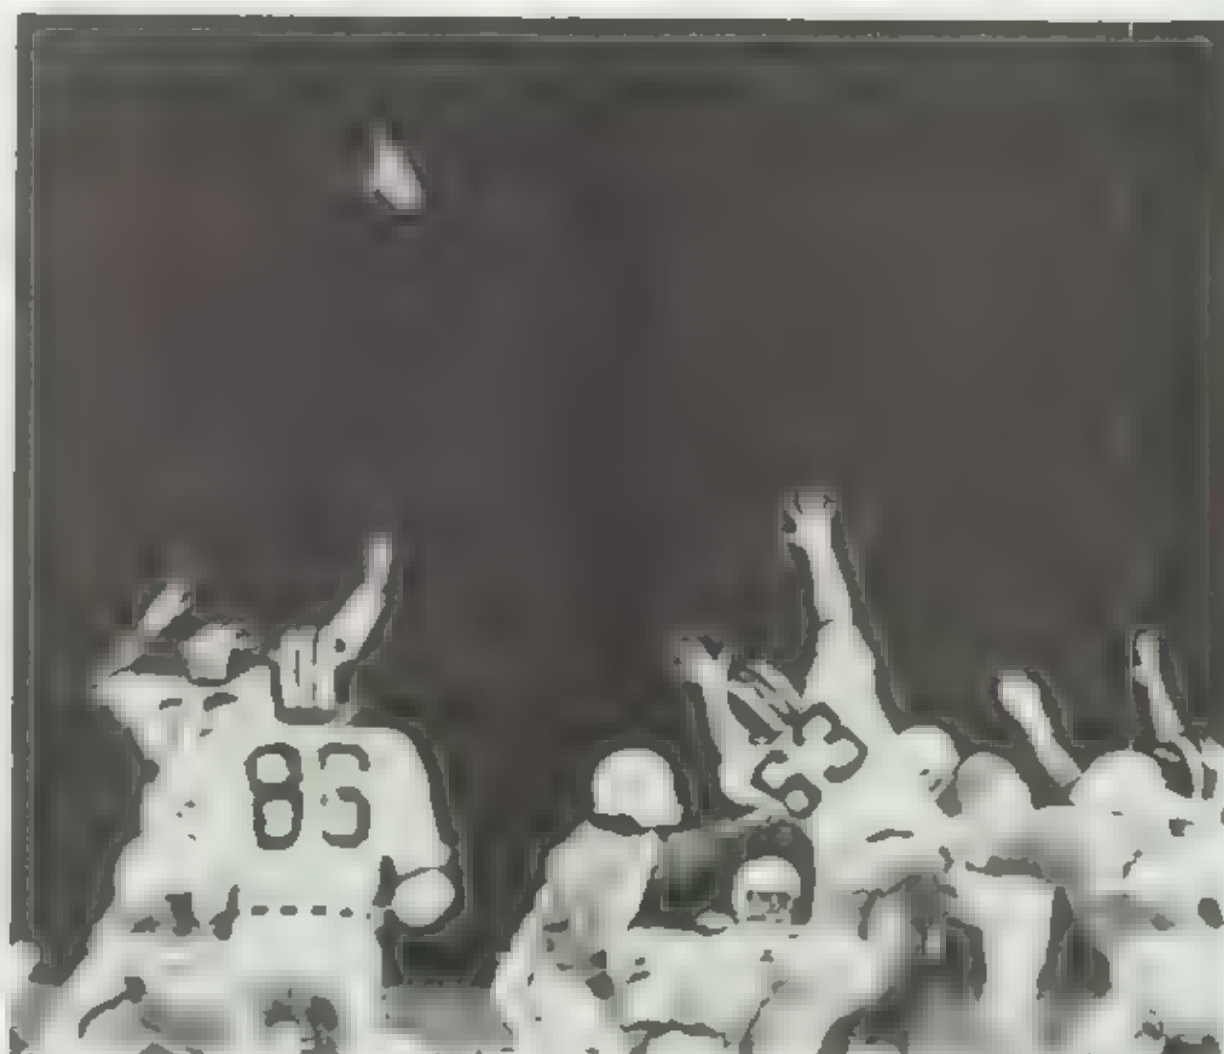

Junior Kristi Jensen sets her sights on the practice putting green on the links before a match with a primary competitor Austin.

Senior Mary Mittenstadt gracefully initiates the start of a set in her gymnastics routine, expressing more of the talent she has.

Concentration in the grip is one of the few things senior Connie Fencham has to keep in mind when calculating her putt.

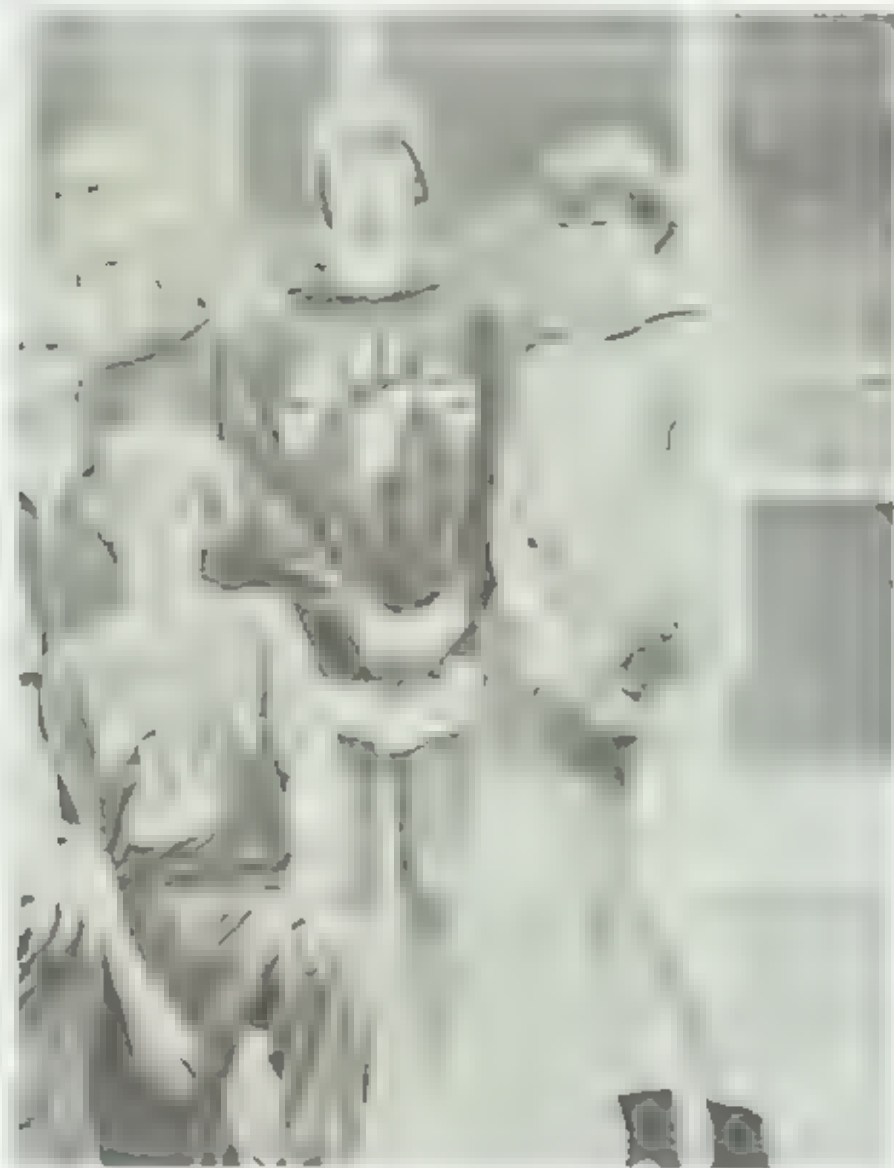

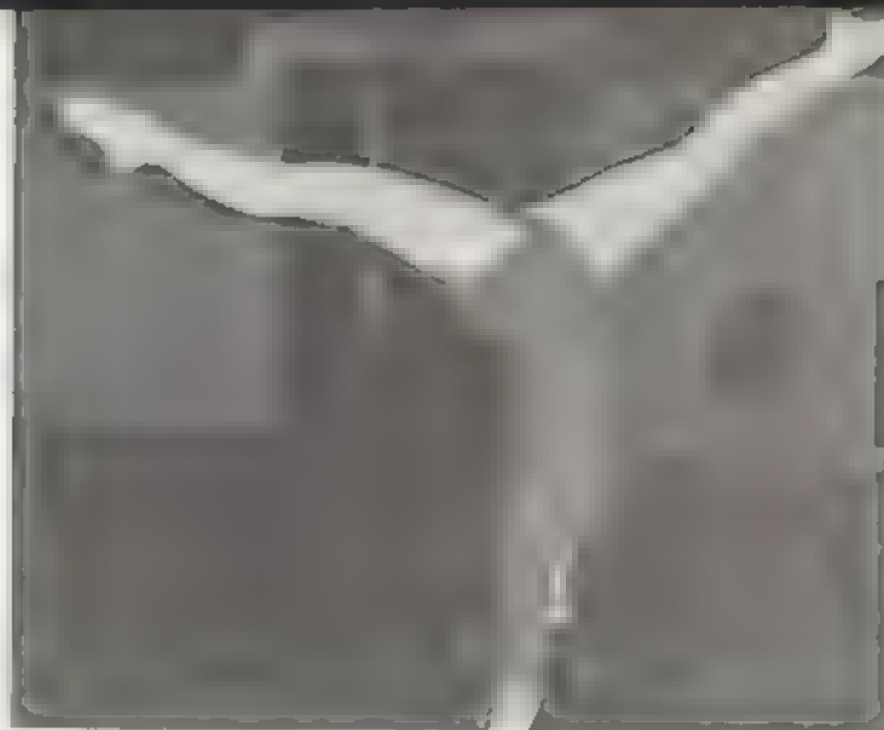

Scrambling unsuccessfully for the ball to prevent a 3 point field goal are the Tigers' opponents, St. Thomas.

Now if you think gymnastics is easy, Diane Vukre, senior, may change your mind as she performs a high point qual—walk-over.

Kicking high and trying to encourage enthusiasm from the student body, the fall pom-pom squad performs one of their many routines at a pep club assembly before Friday night's football game.

Seniors Nancy Shepard and Anita Hanson balance the tediousness of daily practices with occasional light-hearted volley.

The future of Coach Jerry Kapher is in the hands of these smiling B-squaders while posing naturally in Southwest.

Team, crowd tense, fire-up for big rival; 'B' slips to 4-2

A-SQUAD

"We are a good football team playing in the best conference in Minnesota." (Coach Jerry Nelson) . . . . "The dedication shown by the students (athletes, cheerleaders, pom-pom, AH LA HA SA, fans, etc.) has a great deal to do with the athletic success enjoyed by ALHS. A person who sacrifices, finds it harder to quit." (Coach Pete Johnson) . . . . "The easy games in the season were the first, but after St. Thomas on it was like climbing a ladder." (Gordy Olson) . . . . "I would have enjoyed Homecoming more if we'd played our old rival Austin, because of their win over JM the previous week." (Rick Yokiel) . . . . "Winona was a very productive team in offense and defense and once they got momentum they ruled the game." (Mike Curry) . . . . "John Marshall was tough and aggressive and liked to make the big plays. We got beat by a good ball team."

(Jim Dorgan) . . . . "I felt that going to church before school got me mentally prepared for the game." (Jim Hockinson) . . . . "The only thing I disliked about practice was the county fair drills." (Lonny Hultgren) . . . . "The most rewarding part of being a manager was we were considered as much of the team as the players." (Paul Sichko) . . . . "I feel the juniors this year will be able to fill the places of seniors leaving." (Scott Farnes)

B-SQUAD

"The squad was a fine group of men. I expect a lot from them next year as juniors playing with the varsity." (Coach Ed Mikulich) . . . . "Becoming one team was a lot of fun and most of all a big challenge." (Jim Pratt) . . . . "John Marshall was the toughest team we played this year. We just couldn't get things together." (Paul Nies) . . . . "The one thing that stuck out in my mind this season was when Owatonna scored in the last 28 seconds in the game and beat us." (Paul Skophammer) . . . . "The record could have been better but we had a couple of let-downs in two of our games." (Jim Palmer)

Harriers excel in team power, rely on novices to tally 7 wins

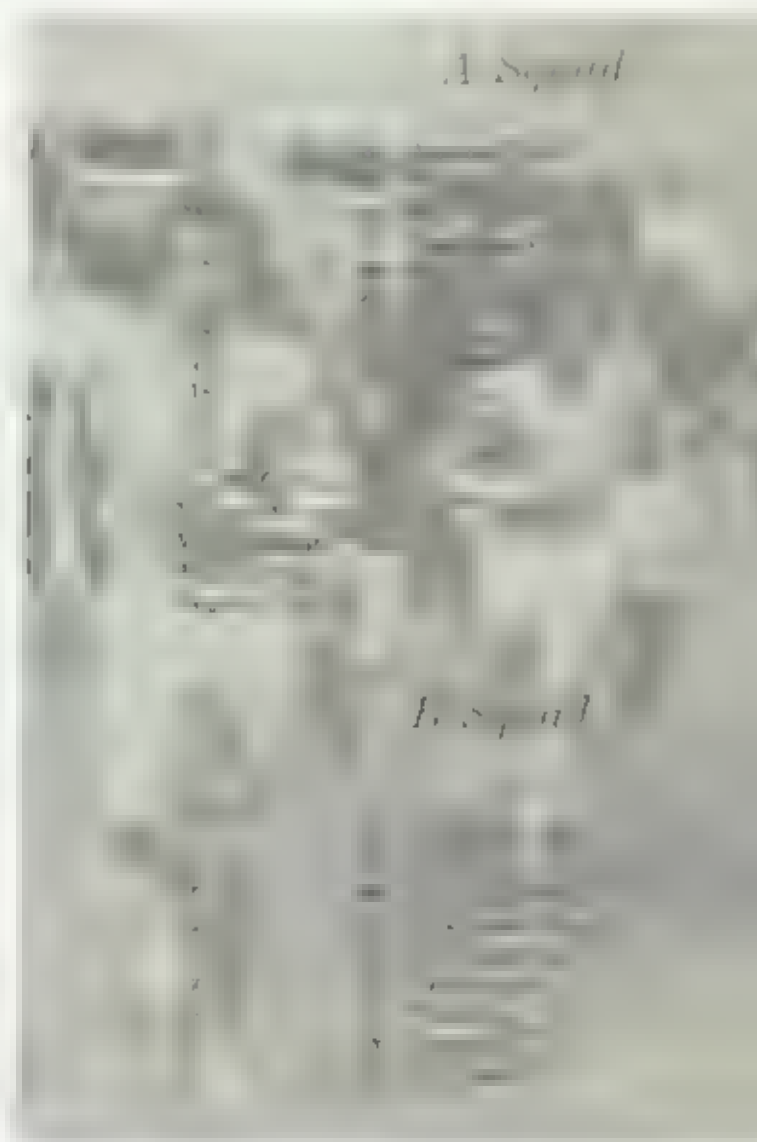

"Mr. Kaphers would tell us before a meet, 'don't underrate your opponents and more important, don't underestimate yourselves, you can win if you want to.' He would give us the statistics of other teams and other runners to show us what to expect." (Brad DeRoos) . . . . "Both Rochester teams were hard to run against. No matter how good you ran, they always ran better. Even if one of their top guys bombed out, another guy ran good." (Randi Christianson) . . . . "I was very proud of the boys. There were a number of disappointing injuries, but they hung together and worked very hard. They continued to improve and finished with a respectable season." (Coach Kaphers) . . . . "The bus rides were more like a showboat." (Mike McNamee)

A-Squad runners loosen up for their next run against Austin. Tension grew

"Early in the season, I was spiked in the Mayo Invitational. I couldn't run for about a month after that, and then the season was over" (Dan Fjellstad)

A-Squad harriers Ralph Hove, sophomore, and Mike Thompson, junior, "Keep on Truckin" till they lower their time against Faribault.

Golf drives swinging scene as girls tee-off in first season

"If we could be interscholastic, I think there would be much more enthusiasm. Mr. Clawson really has a lot of patience to work with us. He's a great coach." (Peggy Thompson) . . . "We had a good team and I think it would easily have been a winning team if each individual had had more time to practice." (Kris Jensen) . . . "I had a good time, even though I hated to practice every night. But that is a step in building a good team. I hope to go out for golf next year." (Kris Nelson) .

"We had play-offs and contests towards the end of the season, which really made you want to do good. We practiced quite a bit, but it was worth it in the long run." (Jody Carlin) . . . "Golf is an individual sport and must be continually worked on to be improved. We had only three matches but that was enough for the first season." (Connie Feuerhelm) . . . "Offering golf as a sport for girls is very important because it may become a lifetime interest. Girls, as well as boys, can experience the joy of accomplishment to play the game well. Albert Lea's first season was a success. The girls were dedicated and concentrated well on improving their game." (Tom Clawson, coach)

One of the new scenes added to the sports calendar this year was girls' golf. The three matches that took place were against Austin. Since girls' golf is not interscholastic, the girls could not letter this year. Front row; S. Hogan, N. Kelly, K. Nelson, J. Carlin. Second row; Tom Clawson, coach, K. Jensen, P. Thompson, N. Houge, C. Feuerhelm, and M. Claassen.

B-SQUAD TENNIS TEAM: Front row; M. Myers, J. Selzer. Second row; N. Shepard, M. Lybeck, A. Hanson, and L. Sigurdson.

Junior Kris Jensen gives the new sport a try as she attempts a chip shot from an unusual angle.

"I really enjoyed tennis this year. We worked harder on analyzing and really thinking while we played, instead of just trying to get the ball over the net. It paid off! When we won, it was with skill instead of luck." (Suzy Denzene) . . . . "I had a lot of fun in tennis this year. Everyone improved a lot by helping each other. Our record didn't show what really happened on the court. We had a lot of fun and close matches." (Mary Speltz) . . . . "The thing that was so great about the team is they never lost their spirit." (Margo Lybeck) . . . . "I had a lot of fun. Everyone worked hard towards winning. We were always pepped up." (Julie Selzer) . . . . "This year more girls than ever came out for tennis. We placed 4th in the Big Nine this year where competition was fierce so we did as well as could be expected. Our record was 1-3, We could have done better." (Mick Christensen)

Being on the girls' tennis team, a member of the varsity basketball team, student thinking, and a firm grip on the racket team proved to be a good time after school and paid off with a fourth place in the Big Nine. Every year, the team's success is a testament to the team's hard work.

"The girls gymnastics team did an extremely fine job, they had a 4-3 winning season. Though I was disappointed about Big Nine, it was organization, not the girls' fault. Girls gymnastics is a new sport in the big nine competition and I think that A.L. will be on top in the competition in the next few years." (Coach Gary Neust)

New cheers of enthusiasm fill gym with sell-out crowds

"Austin was probably our toughest opponent. They have an all around good team, are fairly quick, and have good size. Not to mention good outside shooting." (Bob McCamy) . . . . "The new coach has a different method of coaching which is much more demanding." (Mike Olson) . . . . "Much of the success of this year's basketball team has been their ability to play together as a team and to realize that their strength lies in a disciplined offense rather than being dependent on individual play." (Charles Duhrkopf, coach) . . . . "Last two home games were sell-outs and were a big plus for basketball progress. Five starters averaged 10 pts. per game; we even had two juniors who broke into the starting line-up. No team could key on one player." (Orrie Jirele, coach)

B-squad team shows maturity; 13-5 record proves potential

Sophomore Mark Simunds makes the hot look easy as an anxious audience and opponents look on. Albert Lea defeated Austin's B-squad 49-41.

"In training, we generally have a set schedule. We do a lot of running, and we study the other team's offense and defense before the game." (Scott Johnson) . . . . "The two-week shut-down over Christmas vacation affected us as far as physical conditioning. Fortunately we still had somewhere to keep in pretty good shape. If we hadn't it could have affected us more than it did." (Rich Wendorff) . . . . "Mental approach is very important before a game. You should tell yourself that you're better than the other team. You have to have a positive attitude." (Jeff Soller) . . . . "Our season record was 13-5, best over-all record in Big 9 with Mayo and Austin. I had some of the finest young men you could hope to work with. I'm convinced that this year's squad comprised some of the best potential talent in the Big 9. High point average went to Rich Wendorff with 17 per game." (Bill Laumann, coach)

Low scoring guarantees more practices in next season

"Senior high basketball is a totally new game compared to junior high. We worked hard five days a week to get in shape for our games. There was a lot of pressure and competition but I enjoyed playing other towns." (Kay Tuveson) . . . "I could see we improved by the end of the season, but we were not up to par in the Big 9 playoffs against Austin." (Mary Mittelstadt) . . . "The Big 9 competition was really tough this year. We expected Austin to be tough but many of the other schools surprised me; I thought we'd do better against them. We ended our season with 2 wins and 7 losses." (Lars Fagerquist, coach)

Season record flawless; state contest leaves AL 9th

"I feel our toughest competition this year will be Anoka. They were the only ones who beat us last year and their new wrestlers are improving." (Jett Paulson) . . . "First season I've been on A-Squad and my record wasn't too bad. Cutting weights gets kind of uncomfortable at times, but you get used to it." (Tom Ehrhard)

Holding his opponent in pinning position, senior Larry Miller is on his way to his 17th pin of the season.

"We worked hard three nights a week and the night before a match we practiced about an hour." (Lenny Hultgren) . . . "During Christmas vacation I lifted weights and jogged to keep in shape." (Mark Morreim) Over Christmas vacation former wrestlers of ALHS supervised us when we got together to work out." (Dwight Gingerich) . "The B-Squad didn't have any weak spots. Overall well balanced in strength, moves, techniques and ability." (Coach Neal Skaar) "I've never wrestled varsity before. At first it was scary but as the season went on I got over it." (Reid Katzung) . . . "You have to psyche yourself up before you go to wrestle." (Steve Ferrie) . . . "I liked free style wrestling a lot more than collegiate type." (Larry Miller) "The boys all wrestled well and our showing in the State Tournaments is indicative of the strength of our team in tournaments." (Paul Ehrhard)

Swimmers upgrade season but suffer depth problem

Swimming senior Rick Light gets ready to start off the 440 relay at the Big Nine meet A.L. hosted

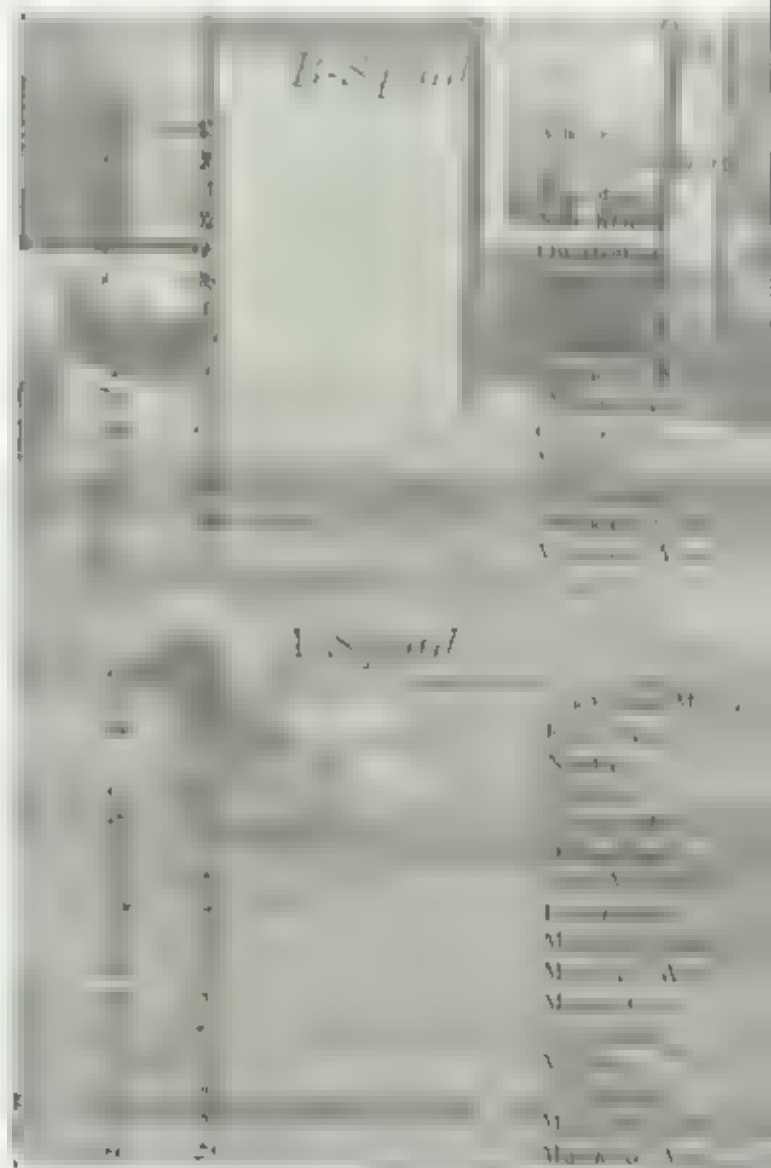

"My hunting accident will only keep me out of swimming for a little while. I'll probably be able to swim about the first of the year." (Robin Sanders) . . . "The high point of the season for me was definitely after winning my events I participated in . . . ."

"We did alot better this year than we did last year; our times were better and we broke 4 records. At the beginning of the season we were hurting without Robin." (Rick Light) "We practice twice a week, Monday through Friday, till 8 a.m. and after school from three till 4:30. On Saturday we have two or three hours of practices." (Jay Utter)

We certainly have progressed over last year and hopefully we will continue to improve. The competition we have in the Big Nine is very keen. A young team such as ours has trouble competing against teams in Big Nine because of superior swimmers." (Coach Jim Lang)

"When I'm running in a meet, like in a mile, the things that go through my mind are trying to win, and I also concentrate on sticking with the leader and the pack, I also work the thurd lap very hard." (Richard Wendorf) . . . "We had a pretty good season this year, I feel we are going to take a good place in the Big Nine and the region and place high in the state track meet." Senior Brad Haase, pitching here for the A.L. Tigers winds up to strike batter out.

Team work is essential both during games and during practice to make each stroke and error free as shown by A.L. players in games against Austin.

"In baseball anybody can beat anybody, you must be ready to play that first inning." (Dave Berg)
"When our defense is tough, we can play against anybody." (Brad Haase)
"I felt Austin was our toughest competitor because they have good pitchers and some really strong hitters." (Mike Thompson) . . . "It is not just a few individuals, we all get involved." (Dolf Moon)

At it takes to throw a ball is to grit your teeth as shown by sophomore Steve Wagner.

"The baseball season ended with the team tying for the Big 9 championship. Nine seniors and eight juniors were on the squad that compiled a 10 win-5 lost record. Darrel Johnsrud, Joel Matheson, Bob Olson, and Dave Dahl led the hitters. This team exemplifies what a group of young men with good attitudes can accomplish." (Coach Ed Stalker)

*Bad weather

"Our routines are just not appreciated by all." (Kris Henderson)

"I loved it! I really enjoyed doing the routines for the kids to watch." (Suzi Iverson) . . . .

"The cooperation between the girls was great; it made us appreciate pom pon more." (Jan Peterson) . . . .

"You feel terrible when you forget the routines." (Mary Jo Dierks) . . . .

"The closeness between us made the squad." (Gail Johnson) . . . .

"I liked the season except when the little kids bugged us for footballs." (Joanne Bue)

"I felt the season was too short." (Paulette Bergh) . . . .

"I thought it was funny when we did the routine without music at the Winona game." (Sheila Wrolson)

"I really enjoyed being a member of the fall pom pon squad." (Jody Pierson) . . . .

"This year pom pon has been a fun experience." (Kristy Jensen)

Larger staff divides work; admen up sales to defray costs

Looking to see the work as a whole, the staff is divided into two groups. The first group is the advertising staff, and the second group is the editorial staff.

"Being editor of the paper, I met a lot of people I wouldn't have met otherwise and learned a lot about myself and how to work with people." (Linda Nelson) "This year I learned a new word: Deadline! I enjoyed the class and got a heck of a lot out of it, especially headaches." (Paul Gronberg) "Advertising for the paper is a real business and if you foul up, it can get you in trouble as in a regular business." (Paul Schmitt)

High school is full of people who are needed to produce the paper. Paul Gronberg listens to Cindy Jacobson for a layout.

'Suddenly' becomes theme, wizard accents year's activities

"Tiger is a lot of hard, boring work after awhile even the pictures start to look alike" (Terri Zrelak).

"Most people on the staff, if they had the time, were willing and ready to help when deadlines rolled around. I thought that was really great to watch people working together towards one goal, a good yearbook." (Connie Feuerhelm)

"Classes was one of the easiest parts of the yearbook, although it was tedious and time consuming, but when we were through I knew almost every name." (Jeri Dunford)

"Despite the long hours in the darkroom, I gained friendships on the Tiger staff." (Dave Boss)

"The most rewarding thing about being on staff is seeing your own work looked upon by so many people." (Linda Dokken) . . . "I'm glad I got to be on the yearbook staff. How we ever got this book done, I'll never know." (Liz Stiehl)

Rest of the year, if the art work, art editor Liz Stiehl had to design her wizard to fit different layouts in the sections

Tiger staffers used a new method of yearbook distribution this year. Soft drinks were served to encourage a big turnout

Journalists practice on cub edition, learn basics

"Being a cartoonist for the paper is great. I write stories besides doing something I love—cartooning." (Julie Gottland) . . . . "Being a journalist you get a lot of writing experience and learn the techniques of writing for a paper." (Holly Groten) . . . . "On the junior high paper I was a proofreader, but didn't like that so I decided to learn how to write." (Nancy Foat) . . . . "Being an editor is better, I like the title. I hate ads, they're too hard." (Deane Christianson) . . . . "In journalism we learned how to write and had the actual experience of meeting deadlines." (Sheri Springborg) . . . . "I took journalism because then I could help out the paper, write stories for it, and see how it works." (Nancy Maxwell)

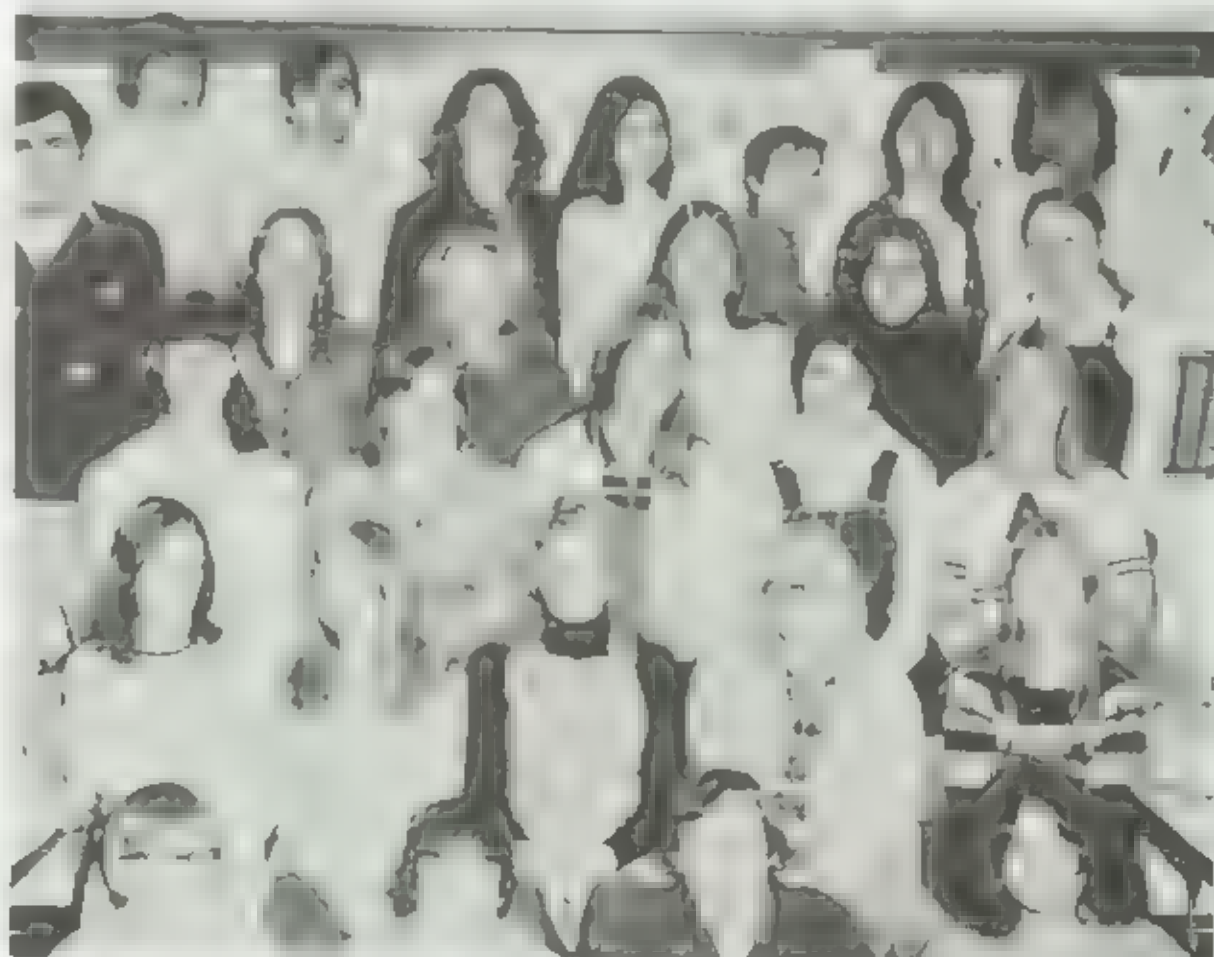

Junior Journalist Glen Fuller, a sports editor, is working on a Tiger Tracks story for the new paper.

Nancy Maxwell, an active journalist, discusses the writing headlines for news articles with more staff than it appears to be.

At the first meeting of the Debate Club, the members thought over and discussed their approaches in defending their view of the year's designated topic. Mr. Munyer and Mr. Esse, the advisers, set a goal in which each side might present their views intelligently.

Full potential not reached; interest lags, hinders team

"It was a disappointment in the lack of involvement from the students and teachers. I liked it, it was really fun and I learned a lot about our government." (Sheila O'Leary) . . . . "Debate is an interesting experience. I only wish more people would avail themselves of this activity." (Mr. Munyer, Debate Club adviser) . . . . "What you put into debate you get out of it. I think we had the potential but it wasn't brought to its fullest." (Lynn Knudson) . . . . "I would like to see a debate class set aside for research." (Kim Ruble)

The year's topic for Debate Club was a resolution for a federal government. Those who, with the coaching of Mr. Munyer, take the Affirmative side

Two banquets honor students; 'Peanuts' play is box office hit

"I have really enjoyed working with the costume crews this year because they have never known the words 'I can't.' Even if they only had a rough sketch or a verbal description to use as a pattern they have always come through with fine results or have been very willing to redo until the results were fine!" (Lilah Aas) "When you work backstage in a play you feel like a part of the play, a vital part which without it the play could not go on." This would not be possible without certain people like instructors and managers." (Rory Larson) . . . "Winning the Backstage award was a real surprise! This is only in it's second year while the Best Actor has been given for 21 years. Backstage is given for work which often goes unnoticed by the audience." (Linda King) . . . "The kids are fun, full of life, and squirrely. It was an enriching experience" (Dave Boss)

"The organization and enthusiasm in French Club this year was great although sometimes not all members participated. It was interesting for me as president." (Nancy Shepard)

I've been impressed with this year's group—their enthusiasm, creativity, and willingness to participate. It's the members who make a club successful, and the kids are great." (Char Ophaug) "The trip to Quebec was fantastic. It was interesting to know I could communicate in a French world. I looked forward to seeing a French play." (Deb South)

Language fair highlights year; students cook Mexican dishes

"At the International Institute, we ate and saw students sing and dance. The food was different but I liked the program." (Celia Guerra)

"There have been activities especially the language fair. I was surprised at the number of kids who participated." Aurora Trejo "I feel that this is an opportunity for students to plan their own activities, the number of them depends upon the involvement and enthusiasm of club members. I think we have some very good officers." Sharon Gatica, Spanish Club Adviser

German pupils abandon books, get education in German life

"Germany was a great experience. Being there 10 days was like spending a year in the classroom." (Kristi Jensen) . . . . "The people were really friendly and I enjoyed living with a German family." (Gail Groeneweg) . . . . "Just spending different money and speaking a foreign language was worth every cent." (Gary Dunn) . . . . "The flight was awful and the plane was so crowded. We traveled by bus in Germany, not the kind we have here but comfortable ones with very large windows." (Loreen Jellinger) .

"The German people seemed to get a lot out of life. Their lifestyle seems to be much more family-oriented than ours." (Ann Graham)
"The castles were unbelievable. Everything was so ornate and rich-looking because most of the decor was done in gold. There's nothing in America that compares with them." (Julie Hart)

Working clubs win at regions, come home as state champions

"The girls that are in FHA are very active and have had a lot of fun this year." Mrs. Agnew . . . "FHA is both a fun organization and a learning experience. We meet twice each month after school. As a major emphasis this year, the chapter members decided to do things with and for people in nursing homes. As a fund-raising project we operated the concession stands at the wrestling tournament." (Miss Schock) . . . "I am really impressed with the attitudes of students in the vocational organizations. They participate in school and club activities because they want to, not because they feel they have to." (Mr. Jensen) . . . "The OEA Chapter members have had an outstanding year, including hosting the Regional 13 Conference in Albert Lea, winning 14 trophies at the Mankato Conference and starting the Vocational Chapter's Newsletter." (Mr. Erickson) . . . "This year VICA sent 8 representatives to the Minnesota VICA Skills Olympics in San Antonio, Texas." (Mr. Jacobsen) . . . "Through FFA we try to teach students leadership abilities, self-confidence, and respect for each other and our country. Secondly, we use FFA to teach skills relating to specific contest areas such as agriculture, mechanics, management, job interviews, salesmanship, and livestock evaluation. The FFA members tried to improve on last year's activities. I think they have done a great job." (Mr. Donat) . . . "Some of the main events in FFA this year were parents night, the annual junior/senior farm tour, county and state fair activities, the corn drive, the fruit sales, working on the school farm, and spring banquet. Albert Lea FFA chapter has the third highest membership number in Minnesota this year." (Mr. Ross)

From what I've seen Pop Ced has had a lot of enthusiasm but after the football season is over it goes down. This year we tried to change this by having requirements to be met after a football season.
Things still didn't work, but if there was an improvement in the Community.

Girls display personal taste by interpreting musical moods

"I like modern dancing. It is good exercise and it's a good way to express myself." (Annette Wells)

"Through Dance Club I've learned how to organize things. I had lots of fun but just before the show everything was rushed." (Barb Bickle) "At the beginning of the year we did mostly interpretations, free movement to songs, and prop dances. As the year progressed we began working on our group numbers and individual dances for the dance show." (Angie Acosta) . . . "I was in the show for 3 years. I choreographed my solo and small group numbers." (Kristy O'Brien)

▲ Kristy O'Brien leaped high into the air, demonstrating grace and skill. Her number, "Time in a Bottle" was the last solo.

▲ Kristy O'Brien leaped high into the air, demonstrating grace and skill. Her number, "Time in a Bottle" was the last solo.

▲ A group of junior girls added a humorous touch to their disproportioned bodies made to look convincingly real by their costumes.

"The show took a lot of planning and practice, but it was worth it because we had a lot of fun working together." (Lanae Gilbertson)

"We voted for the most improved and most valuable swimmer at the first dress rehearsal. Kathy Wadsworth was voted in as the most improved swimmer and Linda Nelson was the most valuable swimmer." (Cliff Siskler). "Miss Droen picked the girls who were in the solos and girls that had equal ability were paired up for duet numbers." (Kathy Keaton)

"The girls choreographed their numbers. Miss Droen gave us a few ideas and we derived most of our movements from numbers from other years." (Linda Nelson)

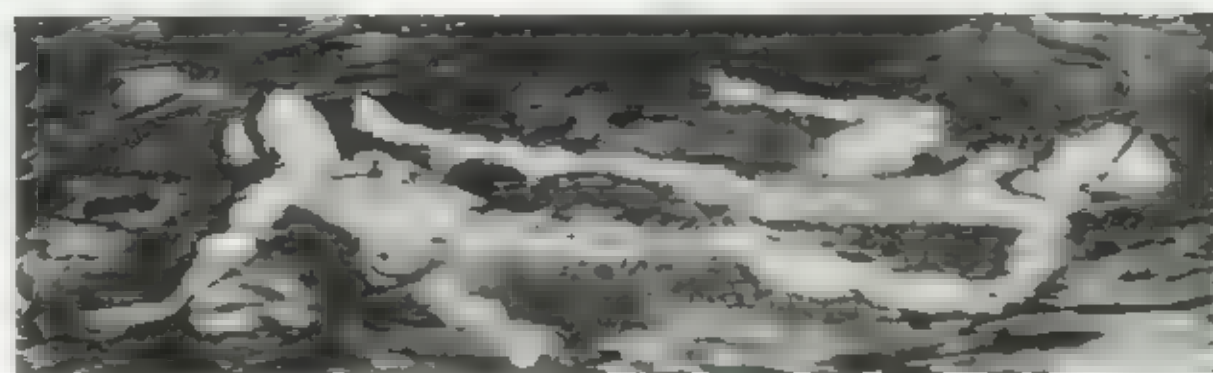

"I wish the windows separating the pool and the audience could be removed because no one could hear the script this year and the performers don't feel close to the audience." (Sheila O'Leary)

▲▲ Lynn Lynn Nelson and Kathy Keaton swim in their first number. Lynn and Kathy are one of the main reasons for the success of the show.

▲ In between two dress rehearsals, the girls had a meeting to discuss their routines. Miss Droen was there to help them.

► So, the girls are all in the pool. Kathy Keaton and Kathy Wadsworth are the first to go. They are the first to go.

A-Chorus sings Southern Blues Chorale keeps music trail hot

I think I like the songs better this year because they're chosen for more difficulty in A-Chorus. I was in B-Chorus last year." (Linda Anderson)

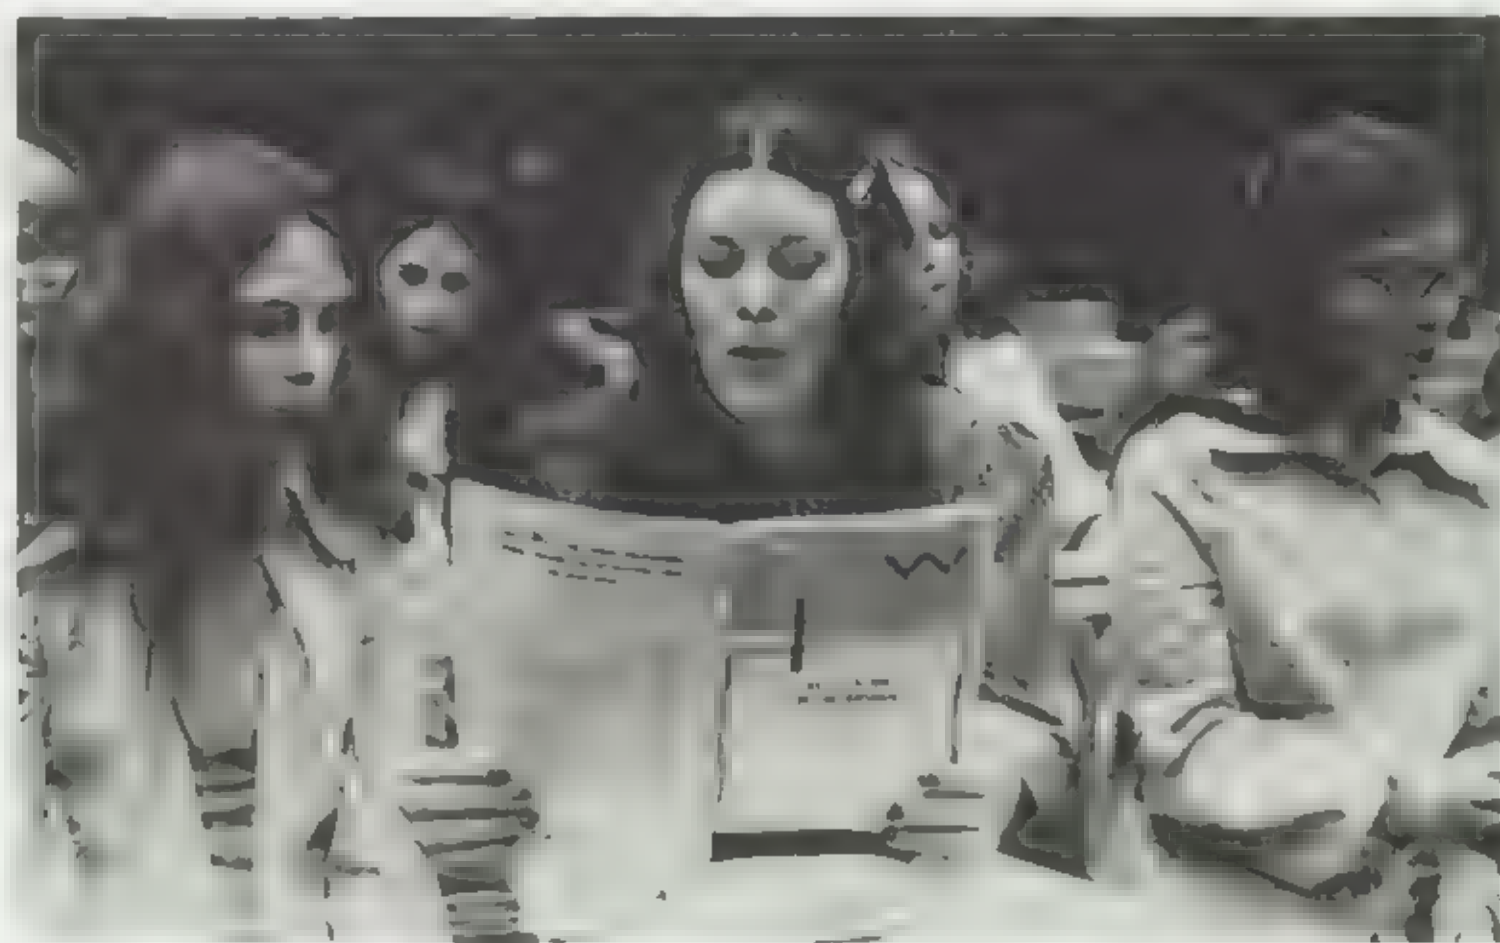

"Chorus gives you a chance to let out your emotions. I can't get into it. I enjoy the chorus. We were a very close-knit bunch. Initially it was very frightening to sing a solo, but I gained confidence in myself after I sang for awhile." (Mike Larsen) . . . . "Music has always been enjoyable for me. I have gotten alot out of chorus and enjoyed working under Mr. Mvers, and with all the different kids." (Paul Granberg) . . . . "We're singing older pieces, mostly old soul music, before we were always singing classical music. Mr. Mvers has chosen a lot of good music." (Cheryl Treanor)

"I like to go out and sing for other groups; it gives me a special feeling at Christmas time. Christmas means more when you can share it with others in Chorale." (Paulina Slegh)

Hermann Herz, this year's guest conductor, visited the orchestra on one of his many appearances throughout the state. Sophomore Marie Lund contemplated his instructions.

Orchestra uses rock sounds, kills staid style in cafe concert

"It's been a lot of work. Select was fun but hard. We got to go on a lot of trips this year." (Shari Brandhoy)

"I enjoyed playing music with the full orchestra, but I wish we could pick out some of our own music, and spend more time working on it." (Marie Lund) . . . "I don't like the orchestra at all but there's a lot of other things you can get involved in outside of class with orchestra experience, such as the Austin Symphony." (Pat Sorenson) . . . "I feel this has been an educational experience I will never forget. I have enjoyed working with the kids in orchestra." (Brad Cole)

"Orchestra was quite uh, shall I say, an experience. We did quite a variety of things, including playing at another school." (Karen Larson)

Meeting the Student Council with enthusiasm and spirit
 Hausman, Vice President Sue Hanson, and President Sue Hanson

"I think Student Council was a good idea, but it was not one really wants to work to make it good" (Jim Countryman). "I think that it wasn't very efficient because there wasn't enough cooperation within the students" (Bob Minchart) . . . "I think that if we had a better president we would have gotten more things done than we did." (Marilyn Haugge). "This year in Student Council has been very educational." (Wade Heinrichs) . . . "Student Council has too many etiquette rules and we didn't get anything done." (Steve Ball) . . . "Student Council wasn't as productive as it could have been. Next year there will be a lot of room for improvement in procedure." (Coke Minchart) . . . "It was too bad the student-faculty committee got going so late in the year, we had a lot of things that could have been done through it." (Terry Nielsen)

"I've always been afraid to take an art class because I didn't think I could do as well as the others, but I found out that being afraid isn't a good excuse for not taking a class." (Sharon Iverson) . . . .

"The music department here has a very high rank state wide. We keep our requirements and the students rise to the challenge." (Robert Myers)

"The Art Department is always trying to improve the courses and give the students more variety on what courses to take. This year we added fees so we could offer the student more supplies." (Peter Fenn)

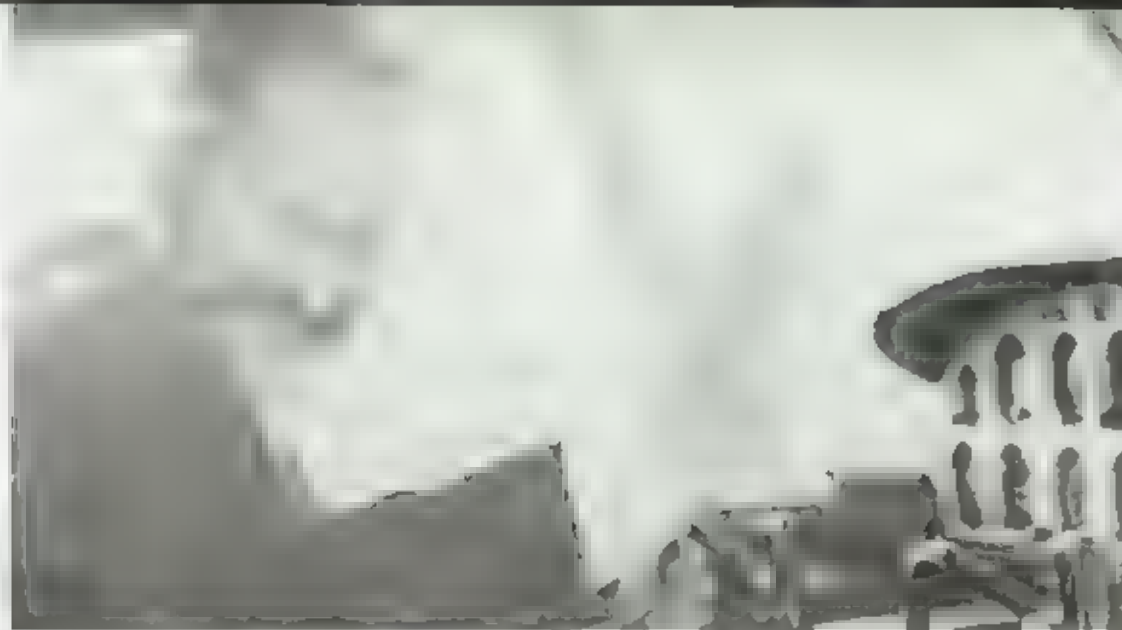

"I like the way Mr. Wegge teaches and we have a fine distribution of instruments in band which makes a good, full sound." (Suzi Iverson) . . . . "Practical cooking is done out of class so we can try different things. Like meat casseroles we haven't tried before." (Bobbi Oslund)

The first of the new year is a time of hope and cheer. It is a time when we look back on the past and
 forward to the future.
 It is a time when we are full of optimism and hope. It is a time when we are full of life and energy. It is a time when we are full of joy and happiness. It is a time when we are full of love and kindness. It is a time when we are full of faith and hope. It is a time when we are full of peace and harmony. It is a time when we are full of everything that is good and beautiful in life.

Popularity of do-it classes is apparent as enrollments rise

"In FFA we never have enough books. (Chuck Sten) . . . . "I took electronics because it ties in with my hobby, modern aircrafts. Also I like working on radios. I plan on taking it next year to work on television sets." (Gary Distad) . . . . "In building trades we built barns and sawhorses and a wall for the photo room " (Al Brooks) . . . . "In graphic arts we print the rosters for basketball games and we make decals, brochures. (Steve Weitzel) . . . . Now we are letting girls into industrial arts. We are offering about 26 courses." (Russell Esson) . . . . "Enrollment is up, one of the largest in the state. Facilities have been improved. Faculty cooperation to promote FFA projects have been high." (Lowell Ross) . . . . "Gateway Vocational Center built a greenhouse this year which is used as a classroom vocational horticulture class. (Neil Duval) . . . . "I went to ALAVTI to learn about food preparation. The teachers, Mr. Buboltz and Mrs. Sanderstrom, did a great job." (Dennis Schmidt)

Fuel shortage no problem; annex, guidance aid home-bound

"After my first year at central, I find I have a lot to learn." (Jack Edlung, principal) . . . "Most of all I miss talking to the students as I did when I was principal. Being superintendant of 241 is a great job!" (Curtis McCamy, superintendent)

"This is my third year at the annex I enjoy what I do a lot. In addition to school-work, I try to help with the girls' personal problems." (Helen Neve) . . . "I'm responsible to coordinate grades kindergarten through twelve, direct the service of the teachers, and keep them updated on what's going on in the school system." (Henry Guse) . . . "The school board makes the educational system specifically oriented for the students throughout the whole system. The board acted the same last year." (Harold Knudson, chairman)

▲ The atmosphere at the annex is much more relaxed than at the high school. Many of the courses are geared towards helping young mothers adjust to home-making responsibilities.

The duties of a school psychologist in the annex are at the student level. Hofkamp often gets bogged down with reports concerning disciplinary students.

▲ Handling teacher complaints and providing coordination through various programs, keep Henry Guse, curriculum director, busy.

▲Counseling staff Richard Masel worked together on pre-registration for next fall. Mr. Masel

Looking into the future and preserving the past we examine ourselves and how time has changed us all slowly as well as suddenly.

Creating the beginning of a new life centered on new hopes and aspirations . . . We find the things that have made us what we are. People . . . places . . . and experiences have affected us.

Facing reality the way it is, we have only blurred memories left of another school year that has once again come to an end

Liz Stiehl
